COMMENCEMENT.

The commencements which have been postponed for the last two weeks finished up yesterday with the performances of the graduating class of High School, held in Farwell Hall, beginning at 4 p. m. The room was packed full as it could be full of fresh invest in fresh-cut flowers. It was filled with nice critiques, too, fair faces, fans, bonnets, white dresses, and a few specimens of masculine appearance just to relieve the monotony. The display of millinery was very great. The temperature just to relieve the monotony. The display of millinery was very great. The temperature was not so high as it might have been, but it was high enough to discourage any very violent exertion. Those who had to participate in their joys and sing them to us had to confer the crushing weight of their bonnets. The graduates themselves, were considerably embarrassed with white—woolen men—in the matter of clothing. The gentlemen stood in spotless black, while ladies, as a general thing, wore white. They were dressed, the majority of them, in white—a cool, comfortable color, and did not suffer from the heat like the others, and did not say so. The natural logic of the case would lead to the conclusion that they were good.

The exercises were the educational dignitaries of the city, professionals of learning every one of them. Those were the members of the Board of Education, the teachers and the friends of the pupils, who, on the occasion of Superintendent Peabody's first, Second, Third and Fourth Annual Reports were also on hand. The hand was very nicely managed by the infant class of the High School, who set up for the occasion Superintendent Peabody's first, Second, Third and Fourth Annual Reports and kept them
